These short stories are not mere entertainment; they are windows into the human condition, exploring the complexities of love, loss, hope, and despair. With each turn of the page, you'll be captivated by the authors' skillful storytelling and the profound insights they offer into the human experience.

The Lyrical Beauty of Prose Poems

Complementing the short stories in this collection is a selection of exquisite prose poems. These lyrical works, penned by masters such as Elizabeth Bishop and Czesław Miłosz, are a testament to the power of language to capture the essence of the world around us.

A Bird's Lesson

Author Unknown

A little bird with feathers brown,
Sat singing in a tree;
The song was very soft and low,
But sweet as it could be.

And all the people passing by
Looked up to see the bird
Whose singing was the sweetest
That they had ever heard.

But all the bright eyes looked in vain;
As birdie was so small,
And with a modest, dark brown coat,
He made no show at all.

"Dear Papa," little Gracie said,
"Where can this birdie be?
If I could only sing like that,
I'd sit where folks could see."

"I hope my little girl will learn
A lesson from that bird;
And try to do what good she can—
Not to be seen nor heard."

"This birdie is content to sit
Unnoticed by the way,
And sweetly sing his Maker's praise,
From dawn to close of day."

"So live, my child, to do some good.
Let life be short or long;
Though people may forget your looks,
They'll not forget your song."
